I) Managing Oneself

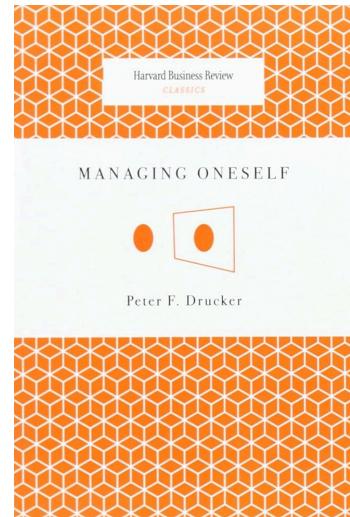

Peter F. Drucker

Read first in 2024

Times read: 2

How well do you know yourself? This book will make you reevaluate how much you know about yourself, and more importantly, what you do about it.

"It takes far more energy and work to improve from incompetence to mediocrity than it takes to improve from first-rate performance to excellence."

II) The 48 Laws of Power

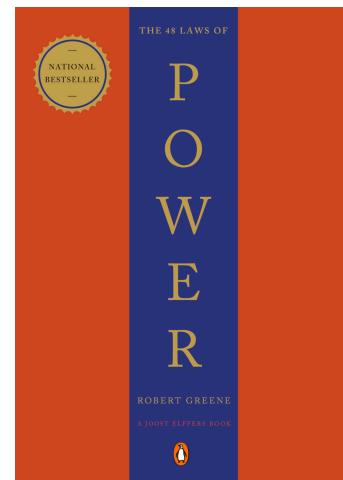

Robert Greene

Read first in 2024

Times read: 1

Packed with interesting stories and brilliant laws, this book made me more interesting. At least one of these laws can apply to your life directly.

"Be wary of friends—they will betray you more quickly, for they are easily aroused to envy. [...] But hire a former enemy and he will be more loyal than a friend, because he has more to prove."

III) Creative Mind and Success

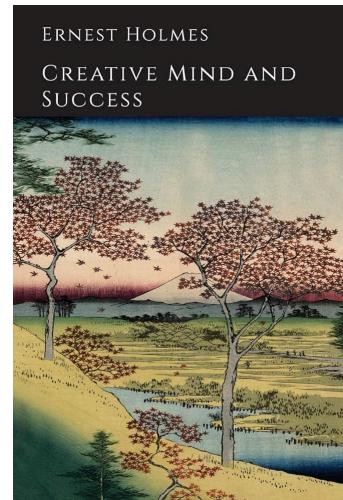

Ernest Holmes

Read first in 2024

Times read: 1

A short book but a good one. Don't ask me what it's about, just read it.

"We can now see how essential it is that thought should be held one-pointed; that we should think always and only upon what we want, never letting our mind dwell on anything else. In this way the Spirit works through us."

IV) How to Live on 24 Hours a Day

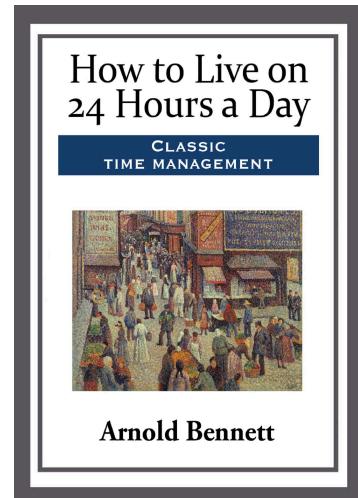

Arnold Bennett

Read first in 2024

Times read: 2

A quick read about how much time we have in a day and the best ways to spend your precious time.

"The most important preliminary to the task of arranging one's life so that one may live fully and comfortably within one's daily budget of twenty-four hours is the calm realisation of the extreme difficulty of the task, of the sacrifices and the endless effort which it demands. I cannot too strongly insist on this."

V) The Prophet

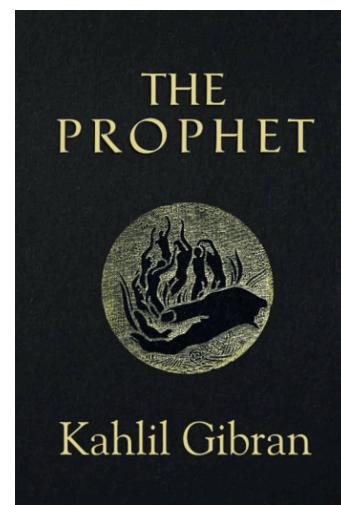

Khalil Gibran

Read first in 2024

Times read: 1

A book that deserves more attention. It is poetic yet approachable. I've even heard it compared to books such as The Bible and The Quran.

"You give but little when you give of your possessions. It is when you give of yourself that you truly give."

VI) The Way of the Superior Man

David Deida

Read first in 2023

Times read: 2

This book has improved my relationships and made me a better man.

"Men who have lived significant lives are men who never waited: not for money, security, ease, or women. Feel what you want to give most as a gift, to your woman and to the world, and do what you can to give it today. Every moment waited is a moment wasted, and each wasted moment degrades your clarity of purpose."
